Don't limit out future of personal digital equipment because Hollywood wants to control the consumer. How can you say a "professional" can have certain digital equipment and average consumer cant? That is absurd. Someone who gets paid to do something for a living is a "Pro", so does this all of a sudden mean they have a higher standard of ethics, when it comes to digital reproduction then non-pros? NO.

Do not create a law that will keep digital equipment out of the reach normal consumers.

Thanks
